Earthquake Toll Over 4,000; May Finally Hit 12,000

U. S. TO OFFER AID
Roosevelt Cables Offer to
President of Stricken Republic

SANTIAGO, Chile.—(AP)—First government reports Thursday gave more than 4,000 dead, and the total may go above 12,000, in an earthquake that spread ruin and terror through central Chile Tuesday night.

The government communique was the first official tabulation of death and damage; but it was far from complete.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt cabled the president of Chile inquiring whether the United States could be of any assistance in relieving any of the suffering.

Norman Armour, American ambassador to Chile, cabled the Department of State that up to Wednesday night he had received no reports of any American citizens among the dead or injured.

City Wiped Out
SANTIAGO, Chile.—(AP)—A violent midnight earthquake Tuesday night was believed Wednesday to have caused thousands of deaths in a destruction which reached from north of Santiago, the capital of Chile, to Valdivia, 450 miles south.

A Pan-American Grace Airlines pilot advised his headquarters at Lima, Peru, Tuesday night that 4,000 persons were dead at Chillan and that the ruined city was in flames. The pilot, Byron Richards, who flew from Santiago to Chillan, a city of 40,000, 220 miles south of Santiago, and returned, said in his report to Lima:

"Chillan in ruins and affire. Ground observers reported 4,000 dead."

Pan-American-Grace said Richards had taken government officials and medicines to Chillan and that the company had placed four planes in operation for rescue work between Santiago and Chillan and Chillan and Concepcion.

A National Airline pilot reported the dead were being buried in trenches in the street, and only three houses in 144 blocks appeared habitable. He estimated the death toll at 15,000.

Other unconfirmed reports told of 2,000 killed in Concepcion, a city of 70,000, 250 miles south of Santiago.

Cauquenes, a city of 6,500 population noted for its mineral springs, 200 miles south Santiago, was officially reported largely destroyed. Its inhabitants were camping in the streets, but the number of casualties was not known.

With communication facilities broken, accurate estimates of casualties from the stricken areas were lacking.

The newspaper El Imparcial, in Santiago, said 10,000 were dead.

A fleet of many trucks left for the zone after other parties of doctors, nurses and relief workers had been rushed south.

Leftist and Rightist parties submerged their recent political rivalry which resulted in election of South America's first Popular Front government, and began organization of relief brigades to be sent into the stricken areas.

Under Military Control
All radio broadcasting stations were placed under military control with strict prohibition against broadcasting any information concerning the earthquake except official bulletins. The licenses of several amateur stations were suspended. Telegraph and telephone lines were out of commission.

The shocks spread panic through a 400-mile strip along the Chilean coast, an eastward 75 miles across the country. The first of the series of quakes was felt in Santiago at 11:35 p. m. No damage was done here.

SANATORIUM FUND

Excess Collections Would

til June 30

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The house Thursday started considering amendments proposed by Nyberg of Phillips county on an administration bill to reenact the 2 per cent sales tax law.

Nyberg estimated the amendments would increase revenue 2 million dollars annually.

Nyberg's plan would provide for prepaid purchaser receipts to be obtained by the retailer from the revenue department; extension of the tax to include beer sales; and the lowering of the collection bracket to 9 cents to take in dime purchases which are now exempt.

The amendments would expressly provide that after the effective date of the act all sales tax revenues in excess of monthly collections for the corresponding months of 1938 would go into the sanatorium building fund until the end of the fiscal year June 30.

"Before any of you get on the floor to oppose my proposal," said Nyberg, "I want you to be prepared to offer a better system. The present system of collecting sales tax is no system at all. We have the rottenest system that could possibly be devised by any human mind."

In the senate, a far-reaching revision of state hunting laws would be provided under a bill introduced by Senator Steel of Nashville.

The measure would revise license fees, game taxes, put a closed season on bullfrogs, and provide a bag limit for rabbits.

Here's Case of a Man Born, Reared, Buried, by Public

Strange Example of Perpetual Burden Is
"Hype Case"

THE PUBLIC FUNDS

It's Possible for Person to Base Entire Career
on Them

During an entire lifetime an individual might draw his income from U. S. public funds. Expansion of the national security program has brought aid to all ages, from the infant to those nearing the end of life. This story, the first of three, concerns federal and state aid as distributed to a mythical individual from the cradle to the age of 17.

By HARVEY WERTZ
NEA Service Staff Writer

Hypothetical Case, a mythical character who hereinafter will be known as "Hype Case," was being supported by public funds before he was a day old.

He was born in a charity hospital, the doctor who brought him into the world certified his mother as dependent and the names of mother and child were entered on county welfare department rolls for a monthly check of $18.

It would have been $30 if Hype had been born in California or Idaho. Indiana pays $20. In New York there is no particular limit to what the infant might have received or the number of sources from which aid might have been forthcoming.

But Hype was born in an average one of the 40 states which contribute to aid for dependent children. While $18 a month is paid for the first child, $12 is allotted for each succeeding dependent. Had Hype been born in Hawaii or Alaska he would have received these same average benefits.

Three-Way Division
Federal payments to infant and mother are authorized under Title IV of the Social Security Act asked by the 74th congress. One third of $18 allowance which the Case-mother and child receive each month, came from the federal treasury, another third from state funds and the last third from general funds in the county or city where Hype was born.

This division of contributions, for purpose of these stories, is based on an average of benefits in all 40 states.

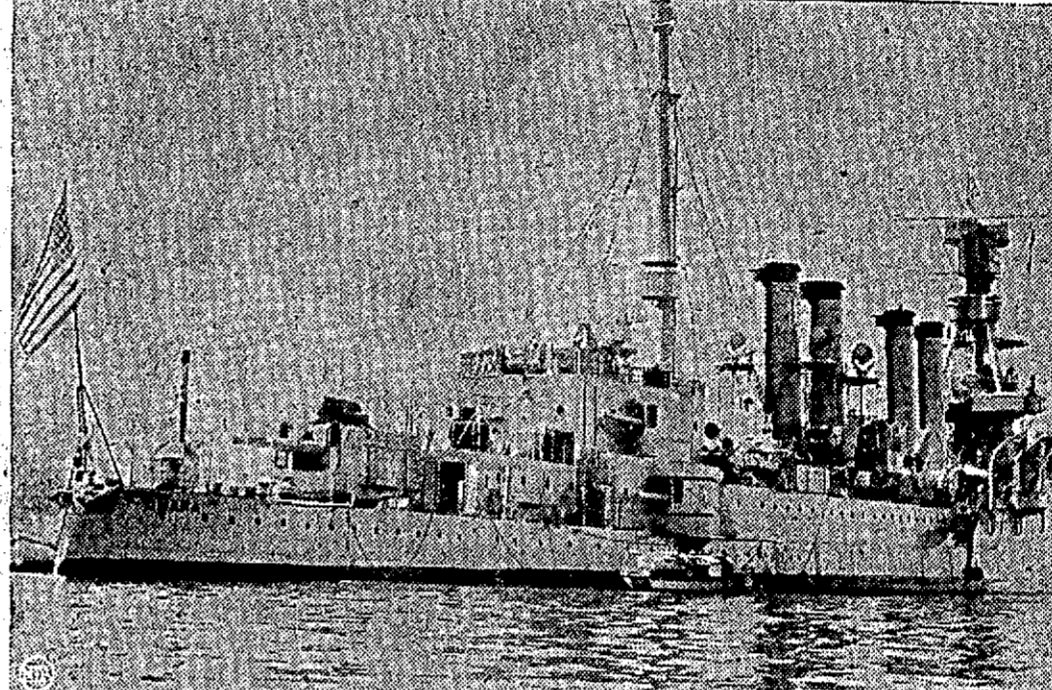

A 16-year investment.

In no state does the federal government provide more than one third of $18 for the first child and one third of $12 for others.

Mrs. Case was dependent. Hype's father might be dead, away, or two irresponsible to make a home for his family. His mother might own a home worth less than $3000 but she would not be eligible for aid if she had $500 in money or securities.

When Hype was six months old his case was reviewed by the county welfare board after that body had examined reports of social workers. If nothing had occurred to change the

Huge Subsidy for Rails Is Demanded

Assert Rails Would Require 2 Years to Prepare for War

NEW YORK.—(AP)—An outright federal subsidy for railroads of between $1,000,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 was advocated Wednesday by Henry A. Wheeler, president of the Railway Business Association, in making public that organization's legislative program.

The association represents the views of companies manufacturing and selling railway equipment. It does not officially represent the views of railway management.

The subsidy—and Wheeler said his association had decided to eschew congressional requests to "disguise" the word subsidy under some such term as "contingent loans"—is based upon three grounds which were set forth as urgent necessities of the nation:

1. National defense.
2. Public safety.
3. National economies.

So precarious is the national defense picture as to railroads, said Wheeler, that if war were declared tomorrow, and unlimited funds were made available, "it would take not less than two years to put the railroads into shape to handle the military requirements of 1918."

As to public safety, Wheeler said that operating expenses of the railroads during depression years had brought many lines, especially secondary lines, "to the danger point."

Supported by arguments advanced by Dr. Lewis C. Sorrell, professor of transportation at the University of Chicago, economic adviser to the association, Wheeler pointed out that production, peacetime rehabilitation of the railroads would prove a semi-permanent major factor in national economic recovery, through direct and indirect effects upon heavy industry.

750,000 Beyond Aid for WPA—Pepper

150 Million Dollars Extra
Wouldn't Help Them,
He Says

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Senator Pepper, Florida Democrat, told the senate Thursday that 750,000 persons certified for work relief jobs could not get them even if congress added 150 million dollars to the proposed 725 millions.

The Florida told the senate that the WPA "has never given employment to more than 27 per cent of the unemployed of the country."

The senate committee on civil liberties recommended legislation to prevent employers from engaging professional strike-breakers. The committee said it was preparing such legislation.

Miller in Favor of WPA Support

Senator to Vote for Roosevelt's 875-Million-Dollar Request

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—In the opinion of Senate leaders, the question whether the senate would sustain President Roosevelt in his request for a work relief appropriation of $875,000,000 rested Wednesday night upon the votes of some five or six members.

So close was the expected vote, that both sides redoubled their efforts to swing votes of hesitant senators.

Less than two hours were devoted to debating the subject, the brief discussion producing reiterated charges of mistakes in the estimates of relief needs submitted by President Roosevelt and Col. F. C. Harrington, head of WPA.

The day brought declarations in favor of the $875,000,000 appropriation from Senators Murray (Dem., Mont.) and Miller (Dem., Ark.) The latter's announcement came as a surprise as he has been regarded as an advocate generally of economy.

"In my opinion," he told the senate, "we are confronted not so much with a theory as with a condition which we must meet. I cannot bring myself to support a reduction in relief appropriations so long as our unemployment problem exists as it does today. I am willing to economize, but I shall not be a party to economy at expense of human misery."

The robber entered the bedroom of Mr. Renfro, picked up his trousers which contained the money, watch and purse.

The trousers were found the next morning near the front door. Entrance was gained through the front door.

Dewey Hendrix, county tax assessor, reported to police that an attempt was made to enter his home, but apparently the robber became frightened away.

Police are without clues.

HENDAYE, France.—Spanish Frontiers.—(AP)—Insurgent Generalissimo Franco's Spanish, Moorish and Italian troops marched into Barcelona at noon Thursday with flags flying and bands playing, formally taking over Spain's largest city after two and a half years of civil war.

The government defenses had collapsed. Insurgent dispatches said there was little or no resistance at the end. At last reports the government army was forming a new defense line somewhere to the north.

Insurgent accounts of the entry said the people of Barcelona flocked from their homes to greet the victorious army whose planes for months had been raining death in their midst.

Insurgent reports said the occupation should be complete by nightfall, and the city formally proclaimed under Franco's rule.

Banker's Plight Is Laid to Bad Crops

Said He Simply Couldn't Forsake Friends in Need of Help

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Grover M. Yowell, former Texas banker who masqueraded as a Memphis milkman for six years before his arrest by G-men, laid his plight to "bad crops and bad practices."

Interviewed in jail where he is held pending his removal to Texas to face an indictment charging embezzlement and misappropriation of funds, Yowell Wednesday said he "just wasn't cold blooded enough to refuse the pleas of my friends."

"There was a series of hard years," he said, "and I helped a number of my friends and associates—more, perhaps, than I should. I lent them money and the bank was overextended."

"Then the bad years came and they weren't able to repay the loans. The bank closed."

"There's one thing I want to get straight," he said, "as far as getting any of the money myself—I never got a cent. When I got my job in Memphis with the dairy, I had a nickel and a sick baby."

Yowell said his bank, the Security National of Paducah, Texas, "was pretty much a one-man bank."

"What I said went," he emphasized. "You know," he said reflectively, "when hard times come, and your friends need help, you have to be a little cold blooded. I just wasn't that way."

Yowell pleaded innocent before United States Commissioner Lewis Featherstone.

Yowell said he left Texas with his family with the hope of "making a comeback and repaying everything."

Cowboy Prefers Buggy While On a Spree

BUTTE, Mont.—(AP)—Horseflesh has one big advantage over gas buggies: a Montana cowboy philosophically told the judge.

"When you get too much firewater under your belt you have to be sensible enough to take you home," he said. "An automobile takes you to jail."

Charged with drunken driving, the cowboy said he came to town to jellolope after two drinks and "got myself arrested."

The judge gave him 20 days and suggested he swap car for horse when he gets out.

In Siam, monkeys are used in the banks. They sit beside the bank tellers and bite the coins paid in. Their teeth marks indicate to the teller whether the coins are genuine or counterfeit.

Business Men Have Writer's Cramp

To read that the United States is attempting to simplify systems under which individuals and business concerns had to render 135,500,000 returns and reports to the federal government last year brings a mixed reaction.

First, there is faint pleasure that something is being done about it. And second there is chagrin that we have allowed ourselves to be overwhelmed in such a mass of bookkeeping.

Many a business man can tell you these days of special clerks hired and the increasing amount of time of regular employees and himself devoted to answering questionnaires, filling out reports, and mailing both to Washington.

Many times Americans have laughed at the methods of the German dictatorship wherein 60 to 80 forms have to be filled out to consummate an ordinary business transaction. Many times they have laughed at Russian Communist red tape which so ensnared executives that they dare not make the slightest administrative move without an endless correspondence with Moscow.

Are we getting ourselves in the same boat? If there is any chance of it, we'd better get out quickly while there is still time.

One of the outstanding advantages which a system of free enterprise has over any kind of a socialistic setup is the lack of centralized control, the ability of individual managers and executives to make decisions, right or wrong, on the spot without clearing them through a central point. With all the faults of free enterprise, this advantage is a real one. It makes for flexibility, speed, and efficiency.

It is difficult, however, to see how any socialistic system (or any totalitarian system) can help being largely centralized. The sheer inability of any central clearing point to funnel through itself the mass of decisions necessary to the day's work of a great country is one of the most valid objections to socialism.

But to have the disadvantages of centralization without the other advantages claimed for socialism is folly. Every scrap of this red tape that can possibly be snipped away without sacrificing objectives that have properly found a place in the central government, ought to be sheared off without delay.

Keep Junior From Mumps Patients to Keep Mumps From Junior

Mumps occurs most frequently during damp, cold weather conditions in winter and spring. More boys than girls are usually affected, possibly because boys are more apt to be crowded together in schools and meeting places.

The disease spreads rapidly, apparently from one person to another. It is most common in persons between the age of 5 and 10 or 15 and 20 years. Beyond the age of 40 attacks of mumps are rare.

The mumps germ is not generally known, but like that of other virus diseases, it is too small to be seen under a microscope. This infectious organism does not live well outside the human body; otherwise the disease would be even more prevalent.

A period ranging from 18 to four weeks after a person has been in contact with a mumps patient precedes swelling of the glands which produce saliva. These are usually the parotid glands in front of the ears.

Glands under the jaw and beneath the tongue may also swell, giving the patient a ridiculous appearance. Inflammation may produce a lessening of saliva flow so that the mouth is dry. Rarely, however, there may be an increase of saliva during time of inflammation.

Fever ranges from 99 degrees F. to 102 degrees F., according to the severity of the attack.

Greatest danger from mumps is possible secondary inflammation of other glands in the body, particularly the "sex glands." Infection may so reach the heart or the spinal fluid. Most mumps patients, however, improve.

Fish Bit Off More Than He Could Swallow

CKMULGEE, Okla.—(AP)—Phil Nicholas was in a duck blind when he heard a commotion nearby and found a big glass amply whipping the shallow water. In the bass' mouth was a half-swallowed 12-inch catfish.

The fin of the catfish had stuck in the bass' eye, causing pain. Nicholas brought home the evidence.

BOY SCOUTS

The Girl Scout Council met Wednesday afternoon at the city hall with Commissioner Mrs. Robt. Campbell presiding and the following members present:

Miss Beryl Henry, Mesdames Charles Harrell, Henry Haynes, Ched Hall, Roy Anderson, C. P. Tolleson, Clyde Morris, R. V. McGinnis, Frank Henne, R. E. Jackson and Edward McAdams.

Mrs. Hall reported completion of the cabin or "Little House" at Fair Park and splendid progress on the furnishings.

The treasurer reported $230 paid into the treasury the past year with expenditures of $207, leaving a balance of $23. There are outstanding bills on the "Little House" of $300.

Plans are being made for the dedication of the "Little House" Sunday, February 5 from 3 to 5 p. m. with Miss Henry program chairman and Mrs. Roy Anderson refreshment chairman. Miss Mary Ester Brooks, field secretary from Birmingham, Ala., Miss Ray Mitchell, regional director of Birmingham, Ala., and Miss Alyce Nelson of Little Rock will be present. February 4, 6 and 7, Miss Brooks will give a course of instruction to captains, lieutenants, council members and those interested in Girl Scout work.

Livestock, after acquiring a taste for the poisonous "loco weed," will eat little else. "Locoed" animals, after acting peculiarly for some months, usually die.

Pan American Airways officials announced in Miami that 1938 set a new record for air travel between this country and Latin America, with a total of 73,910 passengers carried.

Just know the past is but a dream;
Forgive the slight of yesterday;
Forget mistakes, erase ill will,
And face the day with head erect.
Lift up your eyes, salute the dawn;
Lift up your chest and drink in life;
With hands upturned receive your gifts.
Such blessings that are showered on you.
First, one step forward; now, one up;
You must go onward, higher rise;
Your joy today on you depends;
The world is at your feet.—Selected.

Thos. Kinser, Bill Routon, Wallace Van Sickle and J. T. Luck were notified Wednesday that they had been chosen to play in the State Band Clinic, which is being held on January 26, 27 and 28, at Little Rock. The clinic is composed of about 200 members divided into two bands. The 200 were picked from 3000 band members over the state. Bill Routon and Thos. Kinser will attend.

The American Legion Auxiliary entertained on Wednesday at its annual luncheon at Hotel Barlow, with a splendid auxiliary representation and a group of guests present. The luncheon was served in the private dining room. The large round table was covered with handsome damask, and centered with a pot of lovely pink begonias, with fern fronds and nandina foliage surrounding. The chosen color note of pink was also evidenced in the dainty nut cups. Mrs. Glenn Williams, Auxiliary president, presided and the Invocation and Welcome Address were given by Mrs. V. A. Hammonds, followed by unusually interesting program of music reading, and address. Mrs. W. Y. Foster accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Hill sang two numbers, "My Love Is Like a Red, Red Rose" and "Rosa Marie," followed by Mrs. Jack Sullivan, who gave a reading in her own characteristic manner. The program closed with a talk on "Natural Defense" by Miss Beryl Henry, superintendent city schools. Miss Henry stressed national defense not only from a military standpoint, but strongly recommended a national defense against disease and crime and urged education as an antidote. The unusually well arranged and splendidly rendered program was received with much applause and appreciation. Guests for this delightful occasion, other than Auxiliary members were Mrs. Beryl Henry, Mrs. Clyde Hill, Mrs. W. Y. Foster and Mrs. Sid Henry.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoiner Burke, formerly of this city, now of Popular Bluff are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rob Jones and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Kinser will spend Friday in El Dorado, guests of their daughter, Mrs. Al. Park and Mr. Park. Mrs. N. W. Denty entertained on Wednesday afternoon from four to six o'clock with an exquisite tea at her attractive apartment on South Shover street. Mrs. Denty has been in charge of the cafeteria at the high school for the past few years, and her popularity in that capacity has been evidenced in the past few weeks by the many regrets over her resignation, having resigned to join Mr. Denty in their new home in Dermott. The guests for this lovely affair were the high school teachers.

The reception suite was beautifully decorated with spring flowers in profusion, and the lace covered tea table was centered with a large silver basket of lovely rose colored carnations. The appointments were in silver and crystal and the colorful, delicious refreshments and dainty confections made a beautiful picture. Mrs. K. G. McFae and Mrs. A. F. Hanegan presided over the tea and coffee urns, and the salad was served by Mrs. Terrell Cornelius and Mrs. Leo Robbins. Mrs. Denty was assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. Dorsey McFae.

Those cutting during the hours from four to six were: Miss Beryl Henry, Mrs. Roy Stephenson, Miss Mary Billingsley, Miss Lula Garland, Miss Ruth Taylor, Miss Paula Benjamin, Miss Mary Droke, Miss Sara Peyton, Miss Mildred McCane, Mrs. Irma Deane, Mrs. Roy Allison, J. H. Jones, J. S. Galbrith, R. E. Jackson and J. W. Sanges.

The Girl Scouts need an iron tea-kettle, iron pot and fireset of tongs and poker for the fireplace in the Scout cabin. If you have any of these in the attic or store room and care to donate same please call Mrs. Ched Hall 648J or Mrs. Edward McFaddin 602.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Bolls announce the arrival of a son, James Edward, January 22, Josephine hospital.

Card of Thanks
I wish to express my deepest appreciation to all our dear friends for the kindness during the illness and death of my dear husband. Also for the beautiful floral offerings. May God bless all of you.

Eligible Until 16—
Subject always to this semiannual review, Hype might stay on children's aid until he was 16 years old in the average state, 18 years in California, Hawaii, Minnesota, or North Dakota.

The $18 which was contributed to the support of Hype as a dependent child was plainly insufficient to support him and his mother, so she was entitled to relief. From time to time she was able to supplement her relief income and the $18 monthly allowance for Hype by working, but she was never far from want.

The monthly allowance was merely a contribution made available to guarantee that no mother and child would suffer. It was not subject to fluctuations as were relief funds.

Hype's infancy is no isolated case. More than 645,000 children are now receiving aid in 40 states, Alaska and Hawaii. Last year more than $7,000,000 was spent in this activity by all agencies.

President Roosevelt had asked congress to increase the amount of federal aid from the present one third to one half, the same percentage that is provided now by the federal government for old age pensions.

On his 16th birthday Hype was taken off the payroll for dependent children.

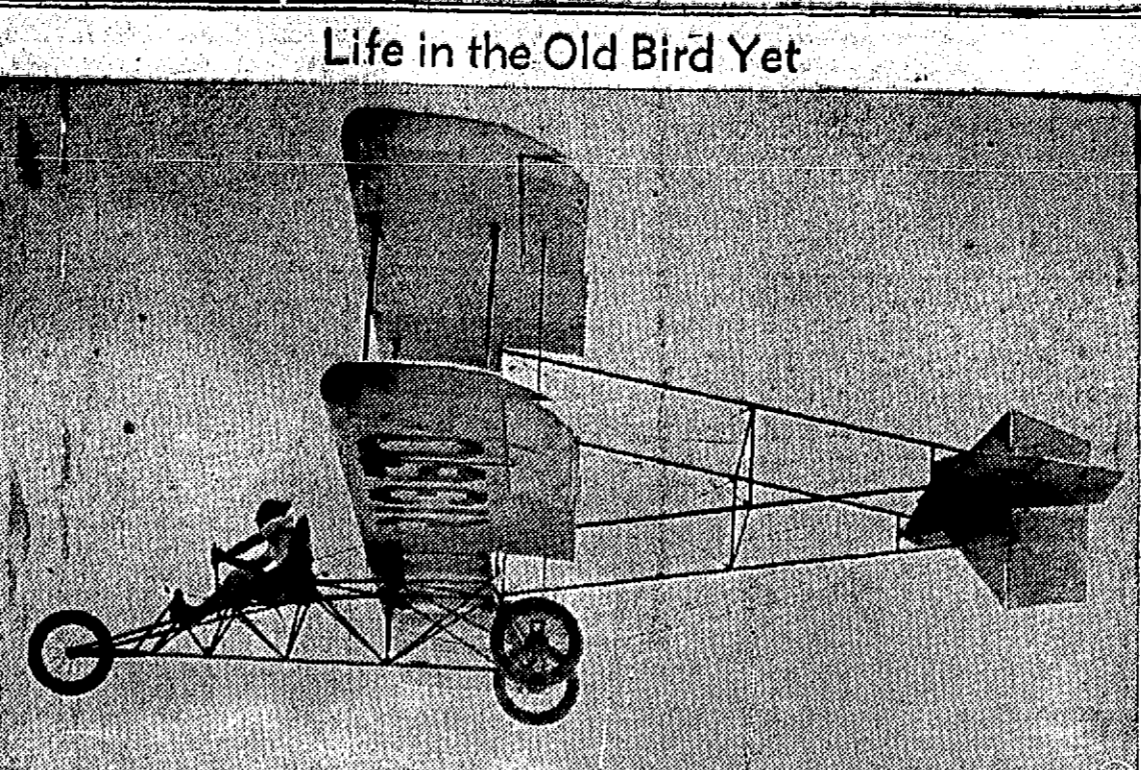

In that time Hype's mother had received for his support the sum of $18 a month for each of the 12 months of his 16 years or a total of $216. Medical aid extended to him and his mother when he was an infant and to him as he grew up had been supplied to the extent of $750 so that Hype in his 16th birthday represented an investment of $4206 in public funds.

In school Hype learned he was eligible for enrollment in the National Youth Administration, since he was without funds. In high school he could earn $12 a month, if he went to college it would be $20 a month. Neither of these grants would interfere with his mother's eligibility for relief since $12 or $20 was obviously insufficient to support both him and his mother.

Begin the Alphabet

He was one of the 375,000 youths on the NYA payroll for more than a year while he was in high school, but shortly after he was 17, Hype learned he was eligible for the Civilian Conservation Corps. To be sure, his education might suffer a little but CCC camps had teachers and the life there was to fit him for a job rather than give him an education.

During his 14 months with the NYA, Hype was most inexpensive. He had received an average of $12 a month

This dress is a basic type that you can vary with different necklaces, brooches and clips. It is the perfect way to make your indispensable "good black dress" and it will be pretty, too, in small figured prints. For this, choose thin wool, flat crepe or faille.

An Unusual Indian Yarn

North America has produced no more extraordinary Indian than Alexander McGillivray. At one time the emissaries of three nations courted his favor—the Spaniards, the British, and Americans. With consummate craft he played them against each other. Thus he was able to hold the land of his people safe from encroachment long after plus meals furnished students on NYA projects. His total wages were $168. The food allowance would amount to not more than $5 a month or $79 a total of $228 which must be added to the investment of $2006 to make a total of $4294 by the time Hype was two months past 17.

To be Continued: In tomorrow's installment of the life of Hype Case, his further adventures on the government payroll in CCC and WPA.

other tribes had surrendered. But curiously enough the full story of this Talleyrand of Alabama has never been written up to now. John Walton Caughey tells it in a book of large caliber, "McGillivray of the Creeks" (University of Oklahoma Press: $3.50). You will go far to find another biography like it.

For McGillivray was a character such as only the early days of American history could produce. He got his name from a Scotch trader father who trapped into the country of the Creek nation with only the traditional shilling and a jackknife, but who came out with a small fortune. His mother was a French Indian.

With this heritage, plus education in Charleston, Alexander soon rose to rule his people. But he faced a difficult task. The Creeks were surrounded by the frontiersmen of Georgia and Tennessee, the Spanish in Louisiana and Florida, the American land speculators and British agents. Miraculously, however, Alexander courted them all.

He drew salary and concessions from each of his adversaries at the same time and he kept the Creek land inviolate for a whole generation. The cause was lost only with his death.

Such is the man Mr. Caughey, assistant professor of history in the University of California, writes about. His book is replete with McGillivray's correspondence as well, making an important contribution to our history. —P. G. F.

Joe Louis Scores K.O. in 1st Round

Referee Stops Heavy-weight Fight After Two Minutes, 29 Seconds

NEW YORK—(P)—Punching at the peak of his form, Joe Louis beat John Henry in less than three minutes to defend his world heavyweight boxing championship for the fifth time here Wednesday night.

The most dangerous hitter since Jack Dempsey, Louis landed stiff right hooks to the head in battering John Henry all over the ring from the first second on. Joe dropped the challenger for counts of two and three and then again smashed him to the floor.

With Lewis flat on the canvas and helpless, Referee Arthur Donovan counted five before deciding to halt the contest. This made Louis the automatic winner and still champion by a technical knockout in two minutes, 29 seconds of the first round.

Joe Follows Plan

The champion, a 1-to-10 favorite to keep the title in the first all-negro heavyweight championship bout in the United States history, followed just the course of campaign he had planned.

Louis wasn't fooled for an instant by Lewis' boxing skill. He went right out to finish John Henry as quickly as possible. How well Joe succeeded is evidenced by the fact that the knockout came in one of the fastest times in championship history.

Available records show the only faster finish was registered by Louis when he stopped Max Schmeling in 2:34 of the first round in their bout last summer. Wednesday night's scrap, like that one, was scheduled for 15 rounds.

Louis Wades In

Sparring for the first 10 or 15 seconds, Joe suddenly leaped forward as the crowd of 17,350, who paid $102,015.43, roared. Louis drove the challenger into a neutral corner and landed a right hook to the jaw. The punch marked the beginning of the end. John Henry took it without falling but his knees sagged and his eyes became glassy.

"I felt funny all of a sudden," said John Henry after the fight in his dressing room in trying to explain the effects of the first punch.

"I don't think he hit me at all," Louis said later. "It was an easy fight. I just worked up a light sweat and that was mostly from the lights."

Louis Over 200

Louis entered the ring with a long pull in the weights. He weighed 200½ and Lewis 180½.

The fight was his fortieth since Louis turned professional in 1934. It was the thirty-fourth time an opponent failed to go the route. Since Louis won the title with an eight-round knockout of Braddock on June 22, 1937, his five opponents have lasted less than 25 rounds.

NO TIME TO MARRY BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, just as Janet is getting to like Barney, he dashes off one night on a business assignment. It was weeks before she saw him again.

CHAPTER XVII

THE extra cleaning service offered by the management had been a real windfall, because it made it possible to save the expense of Mary's wages. Janet, under Aunt Mary's instruction, prepared the simple meals.

The maid who "did" the apartment regularly had been ill for several days, and her substitute was far from efficient. When Anna, the regular maid came back to work, she darted about the apartment, running her fingers over dusty surfaces and clucking disapprovingly.

"I'm awful sorry, Miss Dwight," she said to Janet, who was alone in the apartment at the time. "When the manager told Mr. Benton I look care of these rooms, he asked to talk to me specially. And he told me—"

"You mean the owner of the apartment?" Janet frowned. "But I thought his name was Sartorius."

"No'm, I mean Miss Cynthia's husband—the day he came to arrange about your taking this apartment. He said—oh, my goodness! What am I telling? The housekeeper'll cut my tongue out if she finds out. I ain't even supposed to know."

Janet's thoughts scurried for a moment . . . So it was Timothy Benton's money, and not the social luster of the Cantrell name that had saved Aunt Mary from the garishness of the Avalon Apartments . . . She had been right that first night; he was kind. But what a blow Aunt Mary's innocent pride of name would suffer if she learned the truth!

"It's all right, Anna," Janet said quietly. "But we—the family don't want my aunt worried about unnecessary details. She's rather old, you know. Of course you won't mention this to her or to any one who might!"

"No, ma'am!" the girl promised devoutly.

It was several minutes before it occurred to Janet that she, too, was a beneficiary of Timothy Benton's generosity.

AFTER that interrupted dinner at the Italian restaurant, Janet did not see Barney McKnight until early in November. He drifted into the apartment one evening as casually as if he had left it only a few hours before, kissed Aunt Mary, for a few minutes, and asked Janet if she would like to go for a ride.

"Don't worry if we're a little late, Aunt Mary," he said when Janet protested.

"We'd better step on it, Barney," she suggested. "It will take us over an hour the best we can do; and that fraud of an aunt of mine won't shut an eye until she hears the front door open and close."

"Nonsense! She knows you're with me," Barney said; but he did step on it.

"And by the way," Janet observed, "just when and where do you catch up, with your own sleep? You never seem to be at home when I call up?"

Fabrics That Bloom in the Spring Bring Promise of Colorful Styles

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Service Staff Writer

PARIS—Fabrics for the coming season's styles are as fresh and gay as the first breath of spring.

Even woollens have gone gay in a restrained manner. Soft pinks, blues and greens vie with golden yellows and clear reds in delightful subtle shades that are light as thistle-down. These are intended for the more feminine afternoon ensembles or dress-maker suits.

That suits, too, will be fashionable—the suit, by the way, is now more or less accepted as modern woman's most practical outfit—is evidenced by the number of fabrics inspired by men's suitings.

Plain and striped flannels, harsher weaves with more or less fancy chevrons and other stripes have nevertheless something distinctly feminine. This is usually due to the color contrasts which would be altogether too fanciful for the average man.

Manufacturers seem to be of the opinion that despite all efforts to launch navy blue as a staple to replace black, the latter is due for even bigger success.

vases and then there will be all the unexpected decorative ideas which the couturiers are working on at the moment.

One of the most attractive aspects of spring and summer clothes is seen in the prints. Each year it seems impossible that anything new could be thought up in designs and color combinations. But every year the silk manufacturers show us more and better prints than before.

Take dots, for example. Well, this year dots do all sorts of unexpected things. They form triangles, squares, diagonal stripes, blurred effects. They are massed midway on the fabric or scattered all over the place; they form ordered borders or chevrons; they start as small as confetti and finish up almost as large as a five dollar piece. And there is no end to the varieties of color combinations.

Squares or "paving stones," as they are called here, run dots a very close second as far as variety is concerned. Checks and plaids are still featured but in a much more restrained spirit. Stripes, on the other hand, are shown in every possible manner. Barber's pole stripes, boyardere (which means all horizontal effects), pekims (tail vertical stripes) and galons (imitating or reminiscent of vertical braiding) are among the novelties. The galons are often floral patterns, sometimes varying in widths, with an extra one every eight or ten inches, or else they alternate ordinary stripes, with a floral one. Designs vary too, from evening gowns. Shaded crepes have beautiful draping qualities for the sculptured type of gown. There are some beautiful silk crepes, shading from almost white to midnight blue or violet with a perfectly lovely garland of flowers scattered just above the darkest shading of the hemline. It looks for all the world like a dream-garden border.

It's Reluctant Nicer to Try to Make Friend of a Mother-in-Law

Every mother has her day. Even the mother-in-law. The date set aside to honor that long misjudged relative is February 7.

Letters, telegrams, candy and flowers are to take the place, for a day at least, of the commonly accepted attitude that in-laws (and especially mothers-in-law) are part of the "for worse" side of marriage.

The day is all right as it stands, but maybe another generation could really do something about the relationship if those about to be married get off on the right foot.

The wrong start is usually made at the wedding. Both mothers weep and go in for an orgy of sentimentality, and the bride's mother, if she hasn't a sense of humor, and most of them seen to have misplaced theirs) tells Willie to take good care of "her baby." Baby, nothing. If she's old enough to be getting married with her family's blessing, she is just another adult taking on adult responsibilities, and everyone—including Mama—ought to get that straight.

With that episode eliminated, the young bridegroom might get off to a kinder start toward his mother-in-law.

Then there is the matter of names. The whole relationship is going to be awkward if either the husband or wife has to start calling two middle-aged people who are almost strangers, "Mother" and "Dad" or the self-conscious compromise, "Mother B." and "Father B."

If they're young enough, first names put the relationship on a far more natural basis, or if they are elderly, what is wrong with Mr. and Mrs.? At least until a child comes along to think up a nickname, or make them "Grandma" and "Grandpa."

Then why not cut out all the strain that comes from expecting too much of

"Naturally Thin" Thing of the Past Match-Stick Figures of Few Years Ago Now Definitely Out

The days when it was considered smart to be "just naturally thin" are a thing of the past—and the match-stick figures of a few years ago are definitely out. Indeed, the below-normal weight and the haggard appearance that goes with it is considered a disorder of the human body, to be promptly and carefully corrected. The correction of an under-weight condition is usually pleasant. One can eat and eat to the envy of one's heavier friends.

Failure to gain weight may be due to a great many causes, to be sure, but in the majority of cases, three or four well-planned meals a day are recommended as an important part of the corrective treatment. Planning those meals isn't always easy, for all too often the underweight person is dismayed by the sight of "too much food." Concentrated foods with little bulk and low water content take the place of those with relatively high proportions of water and cellulose, and means cleverly fortified with carbohydrates and fats come into their own. Cooked cereals for breakfast served with cream and sugar, clear soups and cream soups thickened with cereals, puddings with cream, the starchy vegetables, macaroni, breads and cookies—all these are valuable in high-calorie meals.

Lincoln's Favorite Dish Suggests A Date to Celebrate His Birthday

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

Ida Tarbell reports in her life of Lincoln that he was a great one for fruit pies in his bachelor days, and that after he went to the White House as president, several Illinois ladies used to ship pies to him there.

Here's a modern, labor-saving fruit pie, with patriotic stars of crisp pastry, for dinner on the 12th of February in honor of Abraham Lincoln's birthday.

Candy fence rails for the birthday of the Great Rail Splitter, and date fruit pie with patriotic stars because Abraham Lincoln favored fruit pies in his bachelor days.

Date Pie
(6 portions)

One and one-half cups water, 1 1/2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 cups quartered dates, 3/4 tablespoon butter, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, Pie crust.

Bring water to a boil over direct heat. Combine tapioca, sugar, salt and dates. Add, gradually, to water and boil briskly 1 minute. Remove from fire. Add butter and lemon juice. Let stand while pastry is being made.

Line a 9-inch pie-plate with about 1/2 of the pastry, rolled 1/4 inch thick, allowing pastry to extend 1 inch beyond edge.

Fold edge back to form standing rim. Fill with date mixture. Arrange pastry cutouts on top. Flute rim with fingers.

Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Then decrease to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 30 minutes longer. Cool. Arrange wreath of sweetened whipped cream around edge of crust just before serving.

Had Rough Time and Still Didn't Win

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—(AP)—C. J. (Doc) Rogers really "roughed it" during his campaign for state auditor.

He reported to the secretary of state that his campaign expenses were "heavily nothing. I hardly spent a nickel."

"I got me a bed roll and I made it a practice to drive out of town a few miles, park under a sheltering tree, fix the bed roll and go to sleep," he said. "I always ate with farmers and ranchers when I had the chance." He was defeated.

During his rail-splitting days, Lincoln kept his pockets filled with candy for the children who used to talk to him. That gives a hint for a Lincoln's birthday table decoration—Candy Fence Rails and a few toy trees to add green realism.

One square unsweetened chocolate, 1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk, 1 cup confectioner's sugar, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup coconut toasted under a flame.

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water 5 minutes or until mixture thickens. Remove from fire. Add confectioner's sugar and vanilla and mix thoroughly.

Shape into rolls. Roll in the toasted coconut. Allow to stand in cold place several hours or until firm.

The Fleet's 'All In' When U. S. Navy Plays at the Gruelling Game of War

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—It may be a fine thing for the high command, but to the rank and file of the navy it is something of a pain in the neck. "It is Fleet Problem No. 20, which is going to keep the navy busy in its annual maneuvers this winter. In these maneuvers the navy plays war. The fleet is split in half. One side is given some task to accomplish; the other side has to try to stop it. They do everything they would do in actual warfare except shoot at each other. And it's all pretty exhausting. Once the fleet splits in two and the rival wings get into position, wartime conditions prevail on every ship. Lights are out at night. Wireless is silent. Gun crews are kept ready. Everyone is keyed up, alert, watchful. Lookouts scan the sea for periscopes; others look at the sky for "enemy" bombers—which is no fun, because bombers have a trick of coming down the path of the sunlight, which gives the lookout squints and headaches.

The Admiral's The Critic. This year's maneuvers—held in the Atlantic for the first time in years, although the Navy Department swears this has nothing to do with Munich—will begin in mid-February under the eye of Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet. He sits in his flagship, the Pennsylvania, watches everything, and when it is all over writes a critique discussing things in detail.

One of the rival forces in command is by Admiral Kallbfus, commander of the battle force; the other, by Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the scouting force.

On each ship there is an umpire—sometimes an especially assigned officer of the ship. He checks on the ship's performance and keeps an elaborate log of everything that is done and, if you have ever wondered how they know when a ship is sunk in one of these mock battles, here's how it is done.

One ship gets an enemy ship in range of its guns. Her skipper estimates the enemy ship's range, course and speed and confides his estimates to writing. Suppose he keeps the enemy in range of his guns for an hour. During that time he could, presumably, have fired a given number of shells of a given caliber at her; a certain percentage of them would have hit her—if he figured her course, speed and so on correctly—and they would have done a given amount of damage.

The umpire on that enemy ship assesses this damage, according to careful devised tables. He may rule that she has to reduce speed by three knots; he may rule that she has been sunk.

This sort of thing goes on aboard every ship. It applies to all sorts of attacks—night attacks and day attacks, submarine attacks and bombing plane attacks. In the end, the boss admiral has a pretty good line on what would really have happened if everybody had been firing real shells, torpedoes and bombs.

Bang! You're Dead! It's all a strain on the officers and men. The yarn is told among navy men—and you can take it for what it's worth—that years ago, the navy was maneuvering for the south. It was hot and everyone was tired. So the umpires began ruling their ships sunk on slight provocation—for once sunk, a ship is out of the game, and life proceeds normally. Before long, practically all of the ships present were sunk. And the commander in chief finally had to take a hand and notify all sunken ships that they weren't really sunk after all, or the maneuvers would have ended for lack of patronage.

On the other hand, it sometimes works the other way. Back in the twenties a submarine commander sneaked into the path of the flagship—an "enemy" in the problem—and theoretically plugged her with four torpedoes. The flagship was ruled sunk. Immediately the admiral aboard overruled this ruling.

"I'm the commander in chief, ain't I?" he protested. "Well, then—like hell I'm sunk! Let's get on with the war."

Weeks of exercises only slightly less strenuous than the actual war game precede the maneuvers. When the fleet heads north in the spring, and the officers and men begin getting shore leave and have a chance to look at the New York World's Fair, they'll be getting a rest they have fully earned.
